

Thesis topics and supervisors

Chair of Management

October 2021

In the final theses of management department, it is important to integrate theory with practice, for example by implementing practical development projects. This means that in addition to discussing the results of empirical study developing trends are offered and their suitability to specific organizations is evaluated.

Final thesis project declaration should specifically describe the research problem and object of research, also the sample used in the empirical study and the method collecting data.

In case of interest or the lack of your own topic it is possible to participate in field research projects. Since the topics could change, please turn to the potential supervisor in the field you are interested in, in order to check the project topics.
